

DOM, DOB, MDA

What is DOM DOB MDA?

These are chemical variations of amphetamines. They are stimulants.

DOM is chemically 4-Methyl-2, 5-dimethoxyamphetamine was introduced into the San Francisco drug scene in the late 1960s, and was nicknamed STP, acronym for "Serenity, Tranquility, and Peace."

DOB is 4-bromo-2, 5-dimethoxyamphetamine; MDA is 3, 4-methylenedioxyamphetamine, similar to MDMA or Ecstasy.

What does it look like?

It is most often found in either powder or pill form.

How is it used?

They can be taken orally or nasally. They are most often found in either powder or pill form. Because they are produced in clandestine laboratories, they are seldom pure and the amount in a capsule or tablet is likely to vary considerably.

What are its short-term effects?

These drugs differ from one another in their potency, speed of onset, duration of action and their capacity to modify mood with or without producing overt hallucinations.

What are its long-term effects?

Unknown.

What is its federal classification?

Not Applicable

Source

Partnership for a Drug Free America and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA)